EXPERIENCE

The MetroWest Daily News, Framingham — Multimedia journalist

SEPTEMBER 2014 - PRESENT

I cover the town of Framingham, a working class suburb of Boston with a population of roughly 70,000. I write daily print stories for our newspapers and affiliated websites.

I also produce photos, videos, maps and interactive content, and help grow our digital audience by managing the social media accounts of our daily and weekly newspapers.

The Telegraph, Hudson, New Hampshire — City Hall reporter

AUGUST 2013 - SEPTEMBER 2014

I covered government and politics in Nashua, New Hampshire's second largest city. My reporting led to a change in Nashua's city ordinances, as well as the resignation of a police commissioner and an inquiry by the New Hampshire attorney general.

I also wrote for PolitiFact New Hampshire, an affiliate of the fact-checking website PolitiFact.com.

Foster's Daily Democrat, Dover, New Hampshire — General assignment reporter

JANUARY 2012 - AUGUST 2013

I reported on issues of regional and statewide significance for one of New Hampshire's largest daily newspapers.

I led the paper's coverage of the 2012 presidential election, an outbreak of hepatitis C at Exeter Hospital, the murder of Elizabeth Marriott and a fire that destroyed a nuclear submarine at Portsmouth Naval Shipyard.

GateHouse Media New England — Staff reporter

APRIL 2010 - FEBRUARY 2012

Wrote features and covered government, crime and spot news for weekly papers in Arlington and Melrose. I was recognized by the New England Newspaper & Press Association for stories about a local priest battling cancer and a political candidate who misled voters.
